We made a Key class with two private ints for the x and y positions. It has an equals method determine if two Critters are in the same position and a keySet method that returns the position of a Critter. We used a List called population to hold all the individual Critters.